REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

The republicans of Orleans county will meet in convention at Lane's opera house in Newport, on Wednesday, July 16th 1902, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon to place in nomination candidates for senators, assistant judges, judge of probate, State's attorney, sheriff, high bailiff, and county commissioner, to be voted for by the members of said county on the first Tuesday in September next.

Also to elect a county committee and town committees for the two years ensuing.

Towns will be represented by delegates elected in caucuses duly called by the town committee and will be entitled to representation as follows: one delegate for each town, one delegate for each fifty votes and fraction thereof, when such fraction exceeds twenty-five votes cast, for the republican candidate for governor in the year A. D. 1900. Delegates will provide themselves with credentials signed by the chairman and secretary of the caucus in which they are elected and present the same to the county committee, who will act as committee on credentials, at the Memphremagog house, immediately on their arrival. On the above basis towns will be entitled to the following number of delegates: Albany 4, Barton 9, Brownington 4, Charleston 5, Coventry 4, Mattabury 5, Derby 7, Glover 4, Greensboro 4, Holland 4, Irasburg 4, Lowell 3, Morgan 3, Newport 9, Troy 6, Westfield 4, Westmore 2.

RACES AT BARTON.

The races which were to have been held at Roaring Brook Park last Thursday were postponed until Saturday because of the rain. On Thursday morning the rain was falling fast and it was decided to call the races on the following morning but the weather was but little better Friday and they were postponed until Saturday. When it was found necessary to make the second change some of the men proposed leaving for their homes but the officers of the association insisted that the program should be carried out exactly as advertised. On Saturday the entire program was rendered. Although the track was a little heavy in the morning it soon dried off and was in excellent condition. The races were very interesting and were followed by lovers of this sport. The track record was lowered by "E. E. Pett" from 2:17 1/2 to 2:15. The Deville attractions were excellent. Actors were placed at a disadvantage because of heavy wind but their acts were well given and all enjoyed entertainment they furnished. Barton Landing band, Mr. A. H. Ward as leader, rendered excellent music which was appreciated by all. The part in the program was an important one and they filled it to the complete satisfaction of all. L. M. Ward was in charge of the dining and furnished an excellent dinner. There were said to be fifteen hundred people on the grounds. The association sustained a heavy loss through the races being postponed they gave their program all at the earliest possible time. Many words of appreciation were heard from various parties, many of whom had come to town on each of three days in order to be present. The course followed by the association the right one and while they sustained a loss at this time they have maintained their reputation for giving the people a little more than they advertise and of giving their program out. We are to give the summary of the races this week for lack of time.

WESTFIELD CLAIMS THE SENATORSHIP.

A recent issue of the Palladium contains an article entitled "Troy and the Senator." The writer has certain statements to the effect, which so far as we can ascertain, were not made in the Monitor but rather in some paper out of the county. His conception of the writer's logic, however, is correct. During the past forty years there has been seventeen terms of office while Westfield has only three. Of these seventeen ship while Westfield has never helped the senatorship neither within the last forty years nor previously. The writer emphasizes the magnitude of Troy as a business town and the importance of her republican vote. Westfield concedes that Troy is the larger town and ought to cast the larger vote, but denies that it therefore follows that Troy should have everything and Westfield nothing. As to the size of the republican vote, the vote of Troy is such that it is accorded only three delegates in our state convention while Westfield is given two delegates. Within the last forty years Troy has repeatedly sent a democrat to the legislature while Westfield has sent only republicans. It is true that Troy has twice the population of Westfield, but it is not true that Troy should have five times as much county office. The claims of a town with respect to the frequency it has held the office of senator is always taken into consideration in this matter.

The Palladium continues, "It should be a case of the men themselves rather than of the town or school district in which they reside." The claim is that Mr. Hunt has been engaged formerly in the lumber business in No. Troy, and has to do with the electric light plant and lives in sight of the cars, and therefore he has a broader mind than Mr. Bryant who is only a farmer and a bank director and a money lender. Therefore it should be seen at once that Mr. Hunt is the better qualified for the office. Now we would say nothing against Mr. Hunt. We understand he has been a successful business man. We do maintain, however, that to engage in the lumber business, or live in sight of the cars, or have to do with the No. Troy electric light plant, are none of them necessary qualifications for the office of senator from Orleans county. When a farmer and a mill man are candidates for office, we are not aware that the farmer is made ineligible because of his office vocation. A large number of the citizens of this county are farmers. They are entitled to recognition. Let the farmers then rally for Mr. Bryant, the farmer's candidate. Many of the people of Westfield have seen the cars. Some have ridden on them. Mr. Bryant has ridden on them several times. Westfield expects he will ride on them to Montpelier this fall.

TROY ENTITLED TO A SENATOR.

The statement was made in a recent issue of the Monitor that in the forty years from 1860 to 1900, Troy had been given ten places on the county ticket, while Lowell had been given but five, Jay two and Westfield two, and the argument deduced that for this reason, Westfield should now be given the senatorship instead of Troy.

This loses all its force, when we come to consider that during the same forty years, Newport has had thirty-three places on the ticket, Barton twenty-seven, Derby twenty-one and Irasburg sixteen. These figures include elective offices only, and if we were to add the office of county clerk, one of the most important and lucrative of them all, which has been given to Irasburg and Newport during the entire period from 1860 to 1900, the comparison would be still more significant.

It will be seen then that Troy, if we consider its republican vote and industrial importance as a town, has had much less representation on the county ticket than it was entitled to have, if the representation on the ticket is to be made upon the theory advanced by the supporters of Westfield's candidate for the senatorship. The four principal towns in the county, both as regards population and commercial and industrial enterprise, are Newport, Barton, Derby and Troy, and it is readily seen that we have just cause to advance the same complaint if it is to hold good at all.

Irassburg, while of less importance as regards population, vote and industries, has been given if we are to consider the county clerk's office, three times the places, and if we are to exclude this office, one and one-half times the representation that has come to Troy. This is the first time we have heard this argument made against any candidate, and that it is made against Troy seems to us manifestly unfair.

During this forty years Derby has had nine senators alone and yet no one has thought to advance the idea when Derby has presented a candidate for a county office.

question of the men themselves rather than the town or school district in which they reside. It is true everywhere, not only in Orleans county, but in every county in the state, that the towns whose industries are the largest, the towns that have been most progressive in the development of commercial and industrial enterprises, or which from their location as regards railroad transportation, or other causes have attracted these industries, should have a greater number of men who from being engaged in affairs of a broader scope, would more frequently be thought of and brought forward for political honors.

The case of these two candidates for the senatorship is an illustration of this proposition. Both are good citizens, good republicans and enjoy the confidence and respect of all who know them, but when we measure their claims by what each has accomplished as their life work effects the public, it is at once seen that Troy's candidate is the logical one and ought to have the nomination.

Mr. Bryant has not so far as the writer knows ever been connected with any important business enterprise. No large industry bears the impress of his work and thought. He has lived the quiet life of a good citizen on a good farm, not concerning himself with building for others, but by great thrift, economy and industry accumulating a substantial competence, exercising such excellent judgment in the loaning of his own money that a few years ago he was made a director in two banks where he exercises that same good judgment in advising as to loans by those banks.

Mr. Hunt has taken a broader view of life and while not as successful as Mr. Bryant in the accumulation of large wealth has the satisfaction of knowing that the present prosperity and business importance of his town is to a certain extent his own work. Commencing life without any capital save sterling manhood, and business energy and capacity he has contributed largely to build up several successful industries here. The large lumber business, the piano sounding board factory, the butter tub business, and our excellent electric light system here, are to a large extent monuments of his progressive spirit, business capacity and enterprise. He and his associates in these industries have of necessity given employment to a large number of men and it is a matter of pride with Mr. Hunt that no men in the same kind of work have been paid larger wages. The different firms with which Mr. Hunt has been connected, have justly earned a reputation for business honor and it is said that every man who has ever had business relations with Mr. Hunt is today a warm friend. His relations with the public have always been marked with great liberality and every worthy cause finds him a supporter both with his time and means.

Like Mr. Bryant he is a "staunch temperance man," and has never used liquor or tobacco in any form. He has been prominently and actively identified with the temperance cause and as a member of the legislature went on record in favor of prohibition. Either are safe men and good citizens but comparing their relations to the public and what each has sought to accomplish for his country and her people it seems to the writer that there should be no doubt as to the action of the convention.—Palladium.
